“ I remember Aunt Robin, Aunt Bridget Aunt Karen and my dad telling me the ghost stories they experienced, but Aunt Robins house had a ghost as well. I would get so nervous (when it got dark) when I use to babysit, and it didn't help that she had a lamp on a timer in her livingroom, that would just turn on by itself. Would scare the shit out of me. Besides that, I wasn't able to have much of a relationship with Aunt Bridget as I would had liked. She only stayed I'm MO for a time when I was very little. I had connected with her thru Facebook a couple years ago, and we spoke often. I'm sorry for ur loss,. She was a survivor for sure, all Powell women are. Please say hi to my dad. I love u all.

“ Briggett was living in MO. She and I were on a country road. It was dark & there was fog as well. All of a sudden we see a white horse crossing the narrow road. We could not see all of the horse nor a rider or even a person walking with the horse. Having lived in the area since Junior High School, we had always heard scary stories of ghosts and weird things on this road as well as other places in the Missouri area. The next couple minutes the owner was seen walking next to the horse. Briggett and I looked at each other and busted out of laughter. We had laughed at that story often.

Mom always loved the haunted stories. I remember growing up as a kid and she would tell Chuck and I so many scary stories. 💜
