Charlotte was born on November 7, 1935, in Independence, Iowa, to Howard and Christine (Anderson) Borland. She earned her bachelor's degree in education from Northeast Missouri State Teachers College in 1965. In 1967, she moved to Charles City, where she faithfully dedicated 29 years to teaching second grade at Lincoln Elementary School, shaping the lives of countless students with patience and care.

Charlotte was a devoted woman of faith. She was an active member of St. John Evangelical Lutheran Church and was involved with Gideons International. After moving to Story City in 1997, she became a member of Harvest E-Free Church, where she continued to grow in her faith and community.

She found joy in life's simple and creative pleasures, including cross-stitching, ceramics, and scrapbooking. Charlotte loved playing the piano and accompanied many of her own children, grandchildren, and others in their recitals as well as playing the organ for many years at St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church.

Charlotte was very committed to her family, whether they were blood relatives or extended family and treated all of them with the same love and devotion. Watching her children, grandchildren, great grandchildren and even great-great grandchildren grow and participate in activities were a highlight to her. Holidays and gatherings were often spent with food and fun playing games or putting together jigsaw puzzles. She had a deep interest in genealogy and took great pride in researching and preserving her family's history, even traveling to see where her relatives came from in Sweden.

Those left to cherish her memory include her children: Sharyl (Jeffrey) Dilling, Julia (Daniel) Randall, and Thomas Allenstein; bonus children: Marvin (Linda) Hoy, Alan (Sandy) Hoy, Sandy (Duane) Kellogg, Julie (Bernard) Steiert, Joy Smiley, Karen (Jeff) Hall, and Karleen (Brad) Carlson; many grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and great-great-grandchildren; her sister, Diane (Larry) Crow; and numerous extended family members and friends.

She was preceded in death by her husbands, Marvin Hoy and Kermit Klaver; her infant son, Mark; and her stepsons, Terry Hoy and Errol Hoy.

“ I was blessed with a close friendship with Charlotte for almost six years. I believe that when you want to define what love and grace looks like; the dictionary should say, See Charlotte. Charlotte loved and was loved by many. I was able to witness love and receive love from her children, stepchildren, sister and all their families. It is said that you can see the fruits of one's faith. Charlotte's harvest of fruit was enormous. Charlotte's desire was to share the love of God by being a disciple of Christ. Charlotte's Christian faith was exhibited by her love of others, service to the church and her devotion to the Gideons. I praise God for the opportunity I was given to call Charlotte my friend. With great love and respect, Dean Kohlmeyer
