“Marvin & my dad (Don McIntosh) used to meet at the local McDonalds for coffee on a regular basis to talk about “the good ‘ole days”. He was a character, and of course so was my dad & when you got the two of them together, they had a great ‘ole gab session. I always wished I could have been a fly on the wall just to listen to their stories... Now both of them are up in Heaven entertaining them up there with their stories. I hope someday I’ll get to see the two of them again so I can hear more of their tales...

One of greatest generations. We will sure miss seeing Marv. He was so very loved because of his beautiful soul. Thinking of the family, friends, care takers and drivers who had long conversations of laughter between these fly over towns. Maria
